Though the path-way to God is classified in three ways, all the three are in fact one only. Karma the path of action, Bhakti the path of love and Gnanam the path of wisdom are appropriate means for attaining and realising God. The surrender of fruits to God which constitutes the path of action, loving contemplation of God which constitutes the path of love, realising and attaining the form of Supreme Self which constitutes the path of wisdom are inseparably connected to each other. There cannot be devotion without action and wisdom without devotion. Action is like tilling the land and sowing the seeds therein. Devotion is like watering and nurturing the plants and wisdom is like reaping the harvest and enjoying the yield.
